Construction

The Festoon Batten lampholder has been designed for applications where a string of lights is required. The body is made from tough injection moulded PVC to produce a high quality, durable and visually pleasing product. Cabling connection is achieved via base of the battenholder at 90 degrees to the base of the lampholder with a 1 way spiking function, once fitted it cannot be removed and is not rewirable for safety reasons and to prevent exposed breaches in the cable.

Applications

Festoon arrangements indoors and outdoors in sheltered areas where IP43 is a sufficient level of protection.
